Malta knighthoods are awarded to many leading members of the elite who are not members of the Catholic faith. Carter, for example, was Knight of Malta. Former NATO General (and later US Secretary of State) Alexander Haig is also a Malta Knight. Another is General Vernon Walters, the former Deputy Director of the CIA under DCI George Bush and later appointed a roving ambassador by Ronald Reagan (a controversial and unregulatory) head of the CIS's new WWII precursor of the CIA – was "Wild" Bill Donovan, who was made a Knight of Malta after his successful organization and chief of counter-intelligence, James Jesus Angleton. And Joe McCone, another predecessor at the CIA's "spook" agency was also distinguished with a Malta knighthood.
